

Science Outreach – Athabasca presents...

Citizen Scientists Play an Important Role in Bird Conservation

Speaker: Brenda Dale

Wildlife Biologist, Canadian Wildlife Service

Date: May 12, 2015

Place: Athabasca University Governing Council Chambers

Time: 7 to 8 PM

The presentation will highlight some citizen science programs, including the type of information collected and the skill level and time commitment necessary to participate. For each survey, examples will be given of resulting conservation actions. The goal is to make current and potential citizen scientists aware of the value of these surveys; to encourage them to make counting birds count for conservation.

Admission is free. Door Prizes!

Refreshments will be available for this presentation. This event is in partnership with Crooked Creek Conservancy of Athabasca.
