

“Science Outreach – Athabasca presents... “The Wonderful World of Boreal Plants ... And their Ecology!”

Speaker: Marsha Hayward,
Northern Director, Alberta Native
Plant Council and member of
Athabasca Watershed Council

Date: September 28, 2011

Place: Athabasca University
Governing Council Chambers

Time: 7 PM to 8:30 PM

Admission is free.

Refreshments will be available after this presentation.

Come out for the evening and discover the massive world of Canada’s north western boreal vascular and non-vascular plants. Learn about the amazing and diverse ecology of the Boreal Alpine, Taiga Plains, the Cordillera and Boreal Shield. Discover what makes an Eco-region, Eco-province, micro-habitat and more. Based on years of work cataloging thousands of boreal species within their diverse ecology, Marsha will walk you through colorful images of breathtaking valleys and high mountains. Marsha will illustrate why this region is indeed a world of color and life.

Talk also includes presentation of pressed boreal specimens, original botanical illustrations as well as a question and answer session afterwards.
